1. 'Abd-al-Salam, son of Amir 'Abd-al-Krim, President of the Committee for the Liberation of North Africa, will enroll next term in a military academy in Iraq. 'Abd-al-Salam has been attending the Royal Military Academy in Cairo.

2. 'Abd-al-Krim plans to send all young Moroccans who wish to take military courses to Iraq for their studies. He is negotiating an agreement with the Iraqi court regarding the plan.

3. Omar 'Abd-al-Krim, the son of Amir Muhammad 'Abd-al-Krim, Vice President of the Committee for the Liberation of North Africa, recently applied to attend a university in Switzerland and was accepted. Omar has been studying medicine in Cairo, but found his university lacking in facilities. The Egyptian authorities are opposed to Omar's intention to study abroad and have refused to grant him an exit visa, allegedly because the Egyptian universities would suffer loss of prestige if the facts became known.
